Introduction

The Past

John Thomas Monahan is the name of the man who dug the well and for whom the community of Monahans is named.

The discovery of water at the site of present day Monahans was a breakthrough, according to an article in the Encyclopedia of the New West, written in 1881. “The Texas and Pacific Railroad found here its first inexhaustible supply of pure water. The well was 53 feet deep and 19 feet in diameter, with 20 feet of water inflowing with such volume as to defy a steam pump constantly at work for 24 continuous hours.” For the first time, it now becomes apparent that the “Monahan Well” may have had a very significant impact on the opening of the plains; certainly it provided the railroad with much needed water in its advance west.

The Present

Monahans is the County Seat of Ward County with a population of 9,000+ caring citizens. The major employers are the Monahans-Wickett-Pyote Independent School System, Ward County, Oil & Gas Companies, and Village Farms hydroponic green house. Our City, County and School Systems work hand in hand for the betterment of our community. Monahans is proud of their efforts to diversify their community to meet all economic demands that may be faced in future challenges.

The Future

Monahans has a spirit of anything worth doing is worth doing well. Unified leaders and citizens are committed to have a community that maintains a low crime rate, lowest taxes around, embraces strong religious values, and a community that will withstand the test of time.

Projects that have enhanced the community include: Memorial Bricks, Painted Flowerpots, Stone Entrances into the City, Landscaping at Sealy and Main along with

planting vitex trees on Bruce Street. INFRASTRUCTURE

Water

The City of Monahans receives its water from the Cenozoic Pecos alluvium Aquifer. Monahans water is rated as “Superior” through the State of Texas. With a holding tank capacity of 4,000,000 gallons and water pressure in the 50 to 55 pound range, Monahans enjoys wonderful water service. The City of Monahans has a Drought Contingency Plan, a Water Conservation Plan and an Annual Consumer Confidence Report on file with the Texas Commission of Environmental Quality and the Texas Water Development Board.

Wastewater Treatment

The current waste water treatment plant was completely redone in the early 1980’s. It has a permitted capacity of 1.1 million gallons. A little over half the current capacity is being used. Effluent water generated by the facility is stored in two holding ponds and used to water the Ward County Golf Course and various other City and County facilities.

Solid Waste

The City of Monahans operates an arid exempt Type 1AE landfill and provides in-city twice a week pickup for residential customers, and once a week pick up for commercial. Monahans MSW Landfill mono-fills asbestos and certain other classified nonhazardous special waste and maps waste in a 3D gridded trench system. Under the current rate of usage, the useful life of the landfill would expire in 2055. The City of Monahans currently is researching expansion of the landfill an additional 320 acres on City owned land. The City also provides used oil recycling for do-it-yourselfers, metal recycling, cardboard and newsprint recycling, and source reduction through brush and tree limb mulching.

Electrical

As the largest energy delivery company in Texas, Oncor has a long tradition of serving the people of the Lone Star State. From their founding in 1912 to their role as a 21st century energy innovator, their commitment to make life better for everyone has remained constant. The people who make up Oncor are advocates for reliable energy and great service.

When Oncor laid its first power lines at the beginning of the 20th century, who could have imagined the speed of change that would fuel the ongoing need for electricity? With more than 139,000 miles of transmission and distribution lines serving more than 400 communities and 98 counties, they do more than simply keep the lights on. Throughout the decades, the same determination that fired up the first incandescent bulbs across Texas hasn't faltered. At Oncor, the sparks of innovation are alive and well.

Transformative Leadership Academy

The Transformative Leadership Academy is a non-profit independent school that serves students ages 3-18.

TLA uses an innovative, project based and design thinking approach to learning that is focused on the strengths and interests of the individual learner. Rather than focus on memorization of content and test preparation, TLA is committed to preparing 21st century learners who are able to create, analyze, collaborate, communicate, research, and design. Students at TLA are challenged to think outside the box to develop creative solutions for everyday problems.

Additionally, TLA is committed to facilitating strong partnerships with families and local businesses. We highly encourage active parent involvement and volunteer hours for families and host monthly workshop opportunities for business leaders. We want businesses to play an active role in the development of our next generation leaders. We are also working with local businesses to develop relevant internship opportunities for our high school students.

Because TLA is a student-centered environment, we do not focus on high-stakes mandatory testing. Rather, we allow students the time and flexibility to develop at their own pace, whether they are advanced and need to move through content quickly and seek additional challenges, or they need more time to develop and master content. We are supportive of each individual learner's talent, skill sets, interests, and goals. We are a school of the future!

Water and fishing activities can take place a short distance from town at the Imperial Reservoir or at the Perch Pond. In addition, Monahans has a superb Convention Center, library, Sandhills State Park and an active historical society (Genealogy and Archives), which supports the Ward County Museum and other projects.

WARD COUNTY MUSEUM located at the Historic Million Barrel

On the eastern edge of Monahans on Business 20 is the Million Barrel Museum, a 14.5-acre site of historic potpourri. Dominating the scene is a large elliptical oil storage tank designed to hold over a million barrels of crude oil when first built in 1928, but later was abandoned when it proved impractical. Today, after a 1957 abortive attempt to make it into a recreational lake and park, the tank is the setting for barbecues, dances, cowboy poetry reading, singing, fajita cook-offs, craft shows and class reunions. A segment of the tank wall was used to create the 400 seat Meadows Amphitheater, where the performances are held. Beside the tank sits the original Holman House, restored and refurbished to reflect life from about the end of the 1800's to 1927, when it was home to the Holman family and hotel to early day Monahans travelers. It is linked to the oil history of the area because the Holman's son Eugene eventually became president of Standard Oil of New Jersey. Other exhibits at the site include the old Monahans jail just as it was in 1928, Rail Car & Caboose Museum, and eclipse windmill, Heritage Museum, The Rattlesnake Bomber Museum, Coca-Cola Museum and Southwestern Bell Switching Building.

MONAHANS SANDHILLS STATE PARK

The park is located in Ward County five miles northeast of Monahans just off Interstate 20 on park road 41. It consists of 3,840 acres of wind - sculptured sand dunes like classical landscapes of the Sahara Desert. The sand dunes are up to 70 feet high, many of which are stabilized by virgin forest of Harvard Shin oak and other plants; other dunes are desolate of vegetation, causing them to constantly shift with the wind. The park offers a variety of outdoor recreational activities, nature study, picnicking, camping facilities and sand surfing. A museum and interpretive center provides native exhibits of botanical, archeological, historical, and geological features of the Sandhills area.

Trailer and camping sites with water, electricity, and shade shelters are located in the heart of the dunes. Restrooms and showers are conveniently situated near the trailer and camping areas.

The park concession building was constructed in 1903 and was first utilized as a railroad section house. The section house was remodeled in 1955 and again in 1996 by active local civic clubs of Monahans. The section house is available for private meeting and parties and can be rented by making a reservation at the park office (432) 943-2092
